About Faizpur

Faizpur is a municipal place in Jalgaon District of Maharashtra State. The majority of the population of this area consists of small landholders, particularly in the field of agriculture and education. It was here that in accordance with the mandate of Mahatma Gandhi, the Indian National Congress for the first time, held its Annual Session in rural areas, under the presidentship of Pandit Jawaharlal Nehru in 1936. At the call of Mahatma Gandhi, the middle class and the peasantry of this country plunged into the struggle for independence and completely altered its course. Late Dhanaji Nana Chaudhari was the great follower of Mahatma Gandhi hence this town got this opportunity.

Gandhiji had in mind in taking Congress to rural areas could be transformed into socio - economic and cultural life of the rural community. It was, therefore, thought that an educational institute which would serve as a radiating center of ideas and thoughts that would contribute to the social, cultural and economic uplift of the rural community should be established.

The Tapi Valley Education Society (TVES)

TVES was formed in 1960 and under the auspices of this society; facilities for higher learning in Arts, Science and Commerce have been created by starting a College in 1961. This campus of higher learning is famous as "Nehru Vidya Nagar".

UGC recognized Dhanaji Nana Mahavidyalaya, Faizpur, is the Grant-in-aid college affiliated to North Maharashtra University, Jalgaon, (MS).

It is an older institution functioning in the process of extension of education since 1961 and celebrating its Golden Jubilee in 2010-11.

The institution aims to protect and nurture the life of rich sustaining composite culture as well as grand historic tradition.

The institution has been incepted to immortalize the memories of grand past. People in the vicinity came together under the able leadership of Late. Hon. Loksevak. Madhukarrao Dhanaji Chaudhari, the then Minister of Maharashtra and created this monument with people's participation, for fostering the knowledge and culture through education.

Late. Hon. Dhanaji Nana Chaudhari
 Great Freedom Fighter

Dhanaji Nana Mahavidyalaya

The institution has grown up to include several UG and PG courses in Arts, Science and Commerce and has taken a leap into the future by offering research facilities as well. Strong emphasis is placed on students' participation in various co-curricular activities that helps students discover their talent. The institution is proud for its contribution to the society in the field of knowledge, education and intellectual services.

Department of Zoology

The department of Zoology is established in 1971. It currently offers UG, PG, Ph.D. and UGC/University recognized carrier-oriented courses. The department comprises 5 faculty members, of which 4 are Ph.D holders. The faculty is involved in consultancy in agro-based industries and biotechnological applications.
